The Department provides fresh avenues for personality development and command of language skills through well-equipped Language Lab. The department has an excellent academic record and has been bagged several categories of ranks and medals at University level.

About The Seminar

The Magnificence of Language and Literature today is radiant and it should be acknowledged. Language is for expression and Literature is the reflection of that expression. Language plays a significant role in social development. Literature reflects the social life and acts as a tool for further awareness and growth. The status of English language and the luring position of English literature in the present era is a well-known fact. The inimitable quality of Language and Literature in socialising and educating is well appreciated and acknowledged across the globe. When language empowers one to express oneself, Literature opens a broad arena where one can look for larger domains for refinement. The status of English Language and Literature in this global era is a highly relevant topic of discussion among academicians, linguists and literary people. The potential of language and literature are extremely innovative areas for anthropologists as well as academicians to look up. These days, value added courses and value educations are included in the curriculum in order to impart human values to the society. At this moment, it is exciting to deliberate upon the enlightening quality of language and literature.

The two day national seminar aims to explore English language & literature as a tool to examine the challenges in enlightening English Language teaching & learning in current contexts. This seminar aspires to bring anthropologists, linguists, academicians and literary people to a common platform to evaluate the global perspectives on English Language & Literature.
